

Andrei Novik

Frontend developer

I work as an assistant at the Department of Otorhinolaryngology and an otorhinolaryngologist. My work is related to teaching students and treating patients with ENT diseases. I work with students from different countries who study at our university and teach them in English. I want to change my activities and try a new direction in my career. I like to solve different problems and learn something new. I am responsible for work, friendly, I like working in a team
